What better way to lift our spirits than to see
Shakespeare's best loved romantic comedy,
'Twelfth Night'?

The Winter's Tale 2021

'Twelfth Night or What You Will', believed to have been written around 1601 as entertainment for the close of Christmas festivities at the Elizabethan court, opens as Viola and her twin brother Sebastian are separated in a shipwreck off the coast of Illyria. Both believe the other to have drowned. Viola, disguised as a boy, Cesario, becomes a servant to the Duke Orsino, and acts as a go-between for Orsino and the Countess Olivia, who rejects Orsino but falls for Cesario instead.

Olivia's drunken uncle Sir Toby Belch and his hapless friend Sir Andrew Aguecheek are added to the melting pot, as they serve up a generous helping of trickery and revenge on the pompous steward Malvolio. When Sebastian turns up there's even more confusion.

In a world where music is the food of love and nobody is quite what they appear, anything is possible.

Performed in the delightful grounds of Cleeve House, directed by Pat Cannings, with outstanding local talent and sumptuous Elizabethan costumes, this tale of mistaken identity, love, frivolity, music and cross-dressing is not to be missed.

Reserved tiered seating is under the cover of a large marquee, so that the audience stays dry whatever the weather. Picnics are welcome in the lovely Cleeve House gardens before the show.
